

Task 1 — Business Framing

Eight questions written to anticipate what each executive needs from the retail data, separating the operational lens (CEO) from the marketing lens (CMO).

Questions for the CEO

1. What is our total revenue for the period, and how is it trending month over month? Is the business growing, flat, or seasonal?
2. Which countries generate the most revenue and order volume, and how dependent are we on a single market?
3. What is our average order value and total number of orders, and what does that tell us about operational scale?
4. How much revenue is lost to cancellations and returns, and where are they concentrated?

Questions for the CMO

1. Who are our highest-value customers, and what share of revenue comes from repeat versus one-time buyers?
2. What are our top-selling products by revenue and by quantity, and are our high-volume items also high-value?
3. How does customer purchasing behaviour differ by country in terms of average spend and basket size?
4. Are there clear seasonal peaks in demand that we can align our marketing and promotions to?